

Pharmaceutical Legislation, an Important Subject in Vocational Training of Pharmacists

G. Qendro^{1,*}, L. Malaj², E. Hoti³

¹ Pharmaceutical Technology, Pharmacy Department, Applied Sciences Faculty, University of Tirana;
² Pharmaceutical Technology, Tirana University, Faculty of Medicine, Pharmacy Department; ³ Pharmaceutical Chemistry, University of Tirana, Medicine Faculty, Pharmacy Department, Albania

Received March 08, 2013; Accepted May 14, 2013

Abstract: Pharmaceutical legislation directs towards professionals in the legal rules applicable rates for the better use of medicines. The purpose of the study is the importance to law enforcement. Solving problems encountered during the practice. Method: A group of pharmacy students held various topics referred to the applicable legislation and EU Directives. Conclusions: In conclusion it was concluded that the violations were different as a result of not knowing the law or conditioned on the situation they occur. Classification of violations created a mirror on how to build future work in order not to repeat the mistakes in law enforcement and in increasing the quality of service to patients.

Keywords: pharmaceutical legislation, violations, EU Directive.

*Corresponding: E-Mail: gentianaqendro@planetar.edu.al; Tel: 00355692138734